Kelvin can't wait to get to school.
His class is taking a field trip!
But they aren't going on a bus.

Kelvin's teacher has a magic map.
It can take the class anywhere in the world.

"We are visiting habitats today,"
says Miss Hunt. "Here we go!"

habitat:
the home
of an animal or plant

Poof! The class lands on an iceberg in the ocean.
Kelvin and his friends pull on their coats.

“Brrr,” says Alex.

“Are we at the North Pole?” asks Nora.

“Yes, we are! The North Pole is a polar habitat,” says Miss Hunt.

A polar bear and her cubs walk by.
Walrus slide off the ice and into the water.

Kelvin sees a fox in the snow.

“They must be so cold,” says Nora.

“Polar bears and foxes have thick fur to keep them warm,” says Miss Hunt.

“Walruses have blubber.”
