

Heads UP!

A RESILIENCE STORY

by Shoshana Stopek illustrated by Gal Weizman

Meet Peanut

HOBBIES: inventing, building, gardening, playing with friends

FAVORITE BOOKS: How to Train Your Robot Dog and Chipmunk Space Adventure!

FAVORITE FOODS: fruit, nuts, seeds, worms

FUTURE GOALS: to become an engineer or a pilot

GOALS FOR THIS YEAR:

- train my robot dog
- learn to fly a model airplane
- build a treehouse big enough to fit all my friends
- teach my friends how to fly a kite

Peanut was a little guy with BIG ideas and an even BIGGER imagination.
He loved to invent . . .

and build . . .

and tend to nature.

Things didn't always go the way he planned.

But that just made him try harder. As his mama always said,
"Even when things don't work out at first, you just keep trying."

So when Peanut got his next great idea,
he couldn't wait to share it with his friends!
Naturally, they had a few questions.

A cartoon illustration on a green background. A pink rabbit with a bow in its hair is on the left, looking up at a squirrel. The squirrel is in the center, holding a large orange kite. A grey wolf is on the right, looking at the squirrel. A speech bubble from the rabbit asks, "Are you sure you're big enough?". A speech bubble from the wolf asks, "Won't it get stuck in the clouds?". A speech bubble from the squirrel asks, "What if it takes you with it?". There are small details like a ladybug, a spider, and a rock on the ground.

Are you sure you're big enough?

Won't it get stuck in the clouds?

What if it takes you with it?
