The Mountain Fairies

A traditional tale retold by

English text by Rodney Martin

Long, long ago, in the Valley of Savinja, lived some fairies.

These fairies kept sheep by the river and made cloth from their wool. The cloth was as light as a feather. The fairies made their clothes from it.

One night, there was a big storm.
The thunder and the wind scared the sheep. They all ran into the mountains and hid.

Every night, the fairies looked with burning torches for their sheep, but they could not find them.
