Robin is a soldier. He is with King Richard the Lionheart.

Good morning,
Robin Hood.
How are you?

I'm fine,
thank you
King Richard.

But one day his arm is hurt so he goes home to England.
He's thinking of Maid
Marion.

Goodbye,
Robin.
Good luck!

- 3 Robin Hood rides home but... He finds the Sheriff and his soldiers outside his house. The Sheriff is working for bad Prince John.

But this is my house!

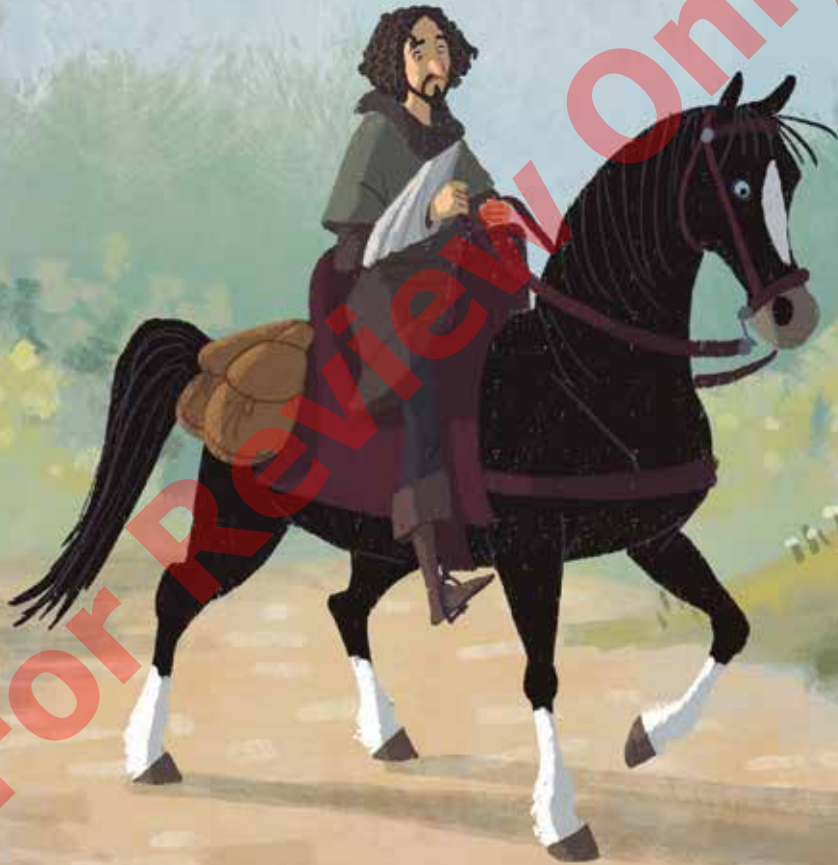

Oh no,
it isn't!

A medieval scene set in a rural landscape. In the foreground, a knight with a red mustache and a dark tunic is mounted on a white horse with dark spots. He is looking back over his shoulder with a concerned expression. To his right, two men in dark, hooded tunics and hennin hats are mounted on dark horses, facing away from the viewer. The background features a stone house with a thatched roof, partially obscured by large trees with green foliage. A large, diagonal red watermark reading 'For Review Only' is superimposed across the center of the image.

▶ 4 CHAPTER 2: Robin Hood and Maid Marion

Robin rides into the forest near his house.
It's called Sherwood Forest. He sees some men takes all our food and all our money!

You're Robin Hood, aren't you?
