

The Milkmaid and Her Pail

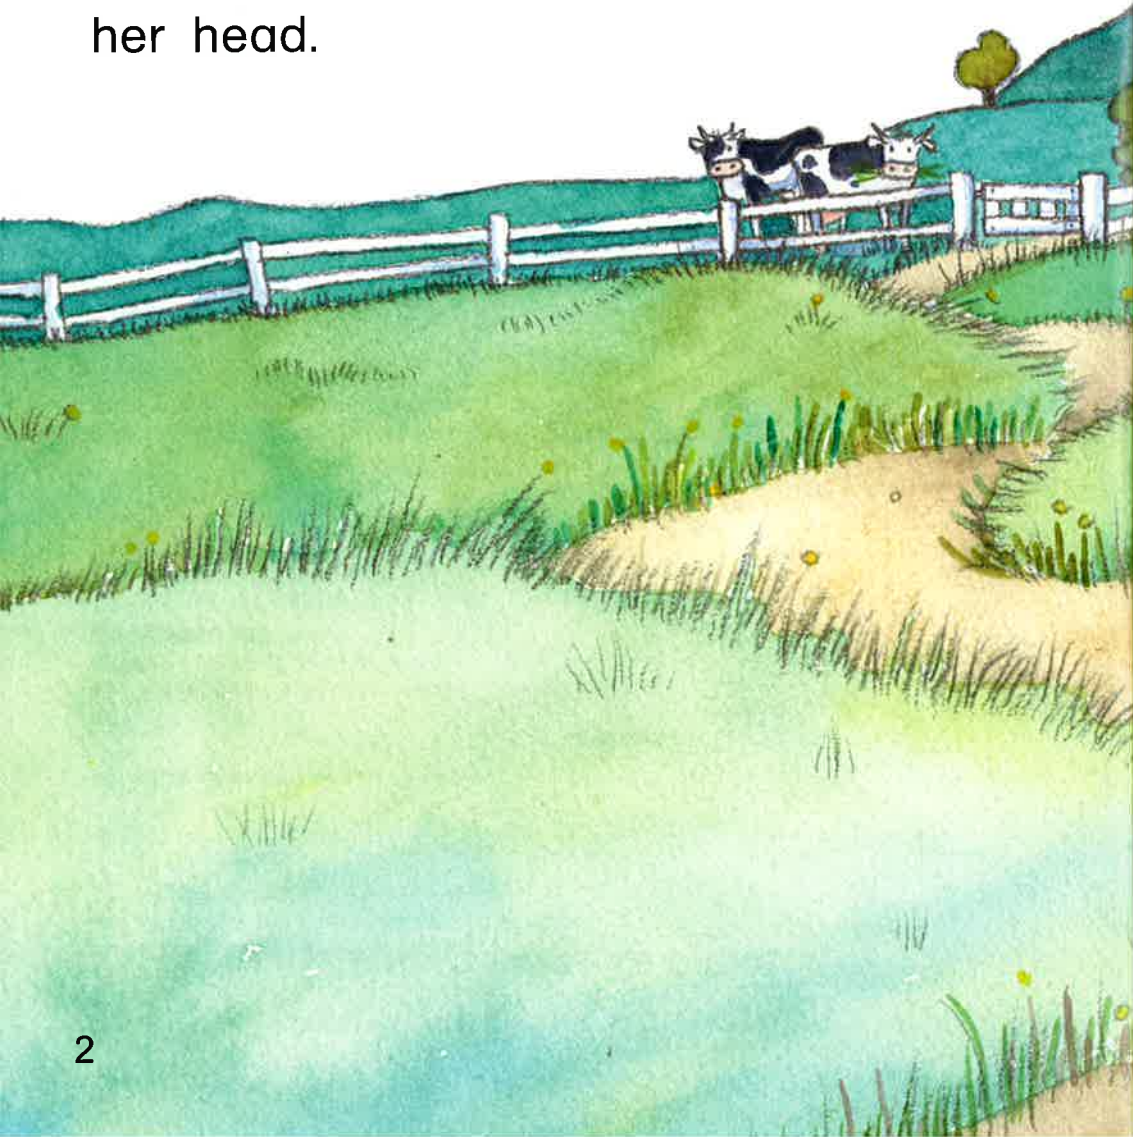

Nigel Croser

Annie White

A milkmaid was walking down the road from her farm.

She had a pail of fresh milk on her head.

“Oh, this is a happy day,” said
the milkmaid.

“I can sell this milk at the market.

If I sell the milk, then I will have some money.”

The milkmaid kept on walking.

“If I have some money,
then I can buy some eggs,” she said.
